

Onima

Onima may have recently landed in Mayfair, but it's the star-studded party scene of Greek island Mykonos that it takes as its inspiration. Greek food gets slick Asian twists with drizzles of ponzu sauce and yuzu, served up in rooms lit moodily and decorated with black marble, brass and more nods to sophistication. Onima may be longing for the sand between its toes, but it could do worse than where it is. The five storey building which houses it is the former London home of Cartier jewellers – credentials don't get more dazzling than that.
